

HITCHCOCK LOOKS FOR COMPROMISE

Democratic Leader Is Ready to Go Half Way, He Says.

FAVORS RESERVATIONS

Outlines Terms He Thinks Suitable for Agreement on Peace Treaty.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Reservations to the peace treaty which the democrats in the senate would agree as a compromise, were outlined by Senator Hitchcock in an address here tonight in the interest of Clyde R. Hoey, democratic candidate in the Ninth district congressional election to be held tomorrow.

The democrats are "ready to compromise," he said, "but they will not agree to a compromise which would give the republicans a veto power over the treaty. They do not think reservations necessary, but they will consent to some for guarding the Monroe doctrine, for making it clear that domestic questions are not within the jurisdiction of the league, and for declaring that the league has no control over our army and navy, that we can be involved in war only by act of congress; that the plural votes of the nations embraced in the British empire shall be qualified; and that, if the United States shall decide withdrawal from the league, it alone shall be the judge of whether its obligations are such that it can properly do so."

While democrats have refused "to make for the destructive reservations which Senator Lodge proposes," said Senator Hitchcock, the are "willing to meet republicans half way in a compromise."

The senator expressed the opinion a statement earlier in the day that there will be found some basis of compromise that will rally enough support from republican senators to ratify the treaty and said "I expect this to be done early in the year."

"Y" RETAINS "C"

Delegates From Tulsa to Detroit Convention Tell of Great Association Rally.

"One of the greatest conventions I ever attended in my life," said Dr. W. O. Anderson at the "Y" forum yesterday in reporting as one of the delegates to the recent gathering of Y. M. C. A. men at Detroit. "There were nearly 5,000 men in attendance, and it was a glorious thing to feel they were all there on the King's business," he said. "One of the big things brought out at the convention, according to Foster Anderson, was the fact that the 'C' is not being dropped from Y. M. C. A. Christianity is the keynote of all the association's activities, and is the real reason for its existence."

C. M. Hoesly, physical director of the local association, gave a report from the physical convention which followed the main convention at Detroit. This meeting was led by Dr. George Fisher, who has been at the head of the physical work of the international committee for a number of years and who last month took over the leadership of that branch of the national Boy Scout movement.

An appeal was made for American physical directors to enter the foreign work of the "Y" as the superiority of American methods of physical training was shown during the war, and now there is a demand for men to go to Czechoslovakia, South America and India.

E. B. Hinton, secretary-treasurer of the local association, was the speaker of the evening.

delegate representing the board of directors. He said he was very much impressed by the large number of business men who came as delegates to the convention from all parts of the country, also the high type of men who were backing up the "Y." He said there was a great opportunity for laymen to perform a great piece of service to young men and boys as well as the public in general, through the "Y." The value of the program of the association in industrial centers was clearly shown by the absence of discontent and strikes in localities where the "Y" is strong, he stated.

H. L. Heinzman, religious work secretary of the Tulsa "Y," said the convention brought out the fact that the association was closely backing up the work of the churches. He said there was a great opportunity for the organization to reach men and boys who could not be brought into the church proper.
